

A SPECIAL NOTE

February 17, 2024

Who can know the mind of Yahweh? Doesn't the Great Way have all the answers? Aren't we supposed to go to Yahweh for wisdom? Shouldn't we ask Him what to do in all kinds of matters? But what about those issues clearly noted in Scripture? Can we defy what Yahweh says based on how old the document is? If we can deny a plan in Scripture about one area, does that mean that all the areas of Scripture can merge with our beliefs and what society says should be the normal way?

We are in the era known as the Church Age. Scripture does not provide us with a time frame called the Apostolic era, and the people today make that up to give claim to their reasoning that since the original apostles no longer live here with us, that means that Yahweh can no longer yield His fullest way in whatever way He would choose. They say that Yahweh stopped talking due to the Book of Revelation being completed in writing form, yet they fail to see that Yahweh can be silent for long seasons.

The office gifts are still active within Yahweh, and these office placements cause people to walk in governing authority. And Yahweh gives out His spiritual gifts as He wills. No one can make Yahweh give them a spiritual gift. No one can declare they have any of Yahweh's gifts just by saying so. None of Yahweh's gifts are bestowed upon us humans based on merit. Yahweh can do as He pleases on Earth and in Heaven.

And can we overrule Yahweh? Are we permitted to say that based on how we feel things should happen, that should be the way? But what about Yahweh's written Word? We have to look past what we see on a piece of paper. It's more than what is written. The words are alive and active because of the God who carries them forward. The words may appear to sit on the page, perceived as dead, something written by one who has no governing. And yet, lo and behold, the words have a great Deity who watches to ensure His words come forward, pushed into natural living.

We sit and look at the words in a written-out Bible, looking at ink on paper, when all along, Yahweh is looking at an active agent, words backed by His spoken word, leading men to pen such words. Because Yahweh lives and is active, the words Yahweh says can continue to move through the ages, never fading as the ink on a page. Whether a prophet or a speaker is living will not determine if Yahweh's words will come forward, for Yahweh is self-standing, able to bring forward His purpose in whatever human vessel or outlet He would choose in that era. And throughout time, Yahweh spoke. Yahweh brought forward His will in visions and dreams, through messengers, and recovered lost documents.

Yahweh will make sure His will prevails.

Now, women, let me address you. I am a woman just as you are. I was born a natural woman of many different heritages, carrying a multi-raced way in presentation. I attended church gatherings for almost all of my life, apart from the previous ten years or so when Yahweh stripped me from local churches except for a review of His will. Yahweh wanted to take me away to view His way without the cloudiness of church tradition and human speculation.

I, too, once viewed a hindering way placed upon women when they were not allowed to minister in a church, stand in a pulpit on a Sunday morning, or be a church pastor. I truly thought that based on the way Yahweh engages today, there must be an update or modernization to His written will where He would now permit a woman to do such things. I hated the actions of those who would "ban" women from doing what they are "gifted" to do. I despised those who would keep me back. And so, I only wanted to hear from those who viewed these things the way I did.

There was no room for leniency in my heart. I was dogmatic in my way of thinking. Why? Yahweh spoke to me in such clear ways and gave me a mission: preach the Kingdom and prepare the world for the return of Christ. I wondered how I could do such a mission if the Church banned me from speaking in the pulpit or gave me restrictions on what office

I held. How could Yahweh talk to me about preaching the Kingdom, yet I was banned from speaking in a church? It did not make sense to me, and I pondered how I would ever be able to prove "my" will. When all along, Yahweh did not call me to the Church; He called me to the world. And now I see why. Yahweh will never contradict His written Word, what plan is given.

I also want to show you what Yahweh taught me over these past few years when He worked on me, stripping away my way of thinking and changing me from once being that old way of thinking to now understanding why He will not permit women pastors. I love you, dear women in Christ, and this book is not to diminish you or make you feel that you have no place in Yahweh's house. Take a moment to hear what Yahweh says. Take a moment to ponder Yahweh's way.
