

AUTHORITY IN YAHWEH, NOT THE ONE WHO REPEATS A SAYING

YAHWEH IS SAYING THE PLAN HERE:

When Yahweh speaks, it is always authoritative. But is it meant to be Scripture, to give out and shape? When the evil king had a visit from Yahweh, did the king's hearing from Yahweh make him a prophet? No. Yahweh gave the king His will, and the wicked king carried on a conversation with Yahweh. Did Cain write Scripture because he had a conversation with Yahweh? Adam and Eve didn't write Scripture yet communed with Yahweh, carrying on conversations.

Stop saying that when Yahweh speaks today, the Bible should note the words, adding today's sayings from Yahweh to the back of the Bible. Yahweh is always authoritative, yet We will not always yield the saying to the Scripture way.

The source (where the words originate) of what is spoken is the way (the pushing, active prophetic placing) to make a saying authoritative. Just because you repeat something does not make you the one who carries My enablement to shape and govern the course of men and history. Yahweh imparting His gifts of office placements into chosen servants will not make the servant the authority figure or source to bring a change. All of Yahweh's sayings stem (are rooted) in Him.

Yahweh gives authority to whatever He has a servant say that a servant heard Me say first. And a servant never gives Yahweh an order to obey. We are carrying the word spoken and yield that word to a servant who then solely repeats what Yahweh yielded first. The servant can never take Yahweh's place, having the people look to them for a word.

SEERSGATE:

You, those who say they hear Yahweh, are not the authority. You are to repeat what the Authority Head says.
